TO ASSIST DELEGATE KUHIO

Attorney Clark In Washington

Among the passengers for the Coast in the China was Charles Clark, who was here some years ago as a practicing attorney and who, after a prolonged stay on the mainland, returned to Honolulu some months since on account of the ill health of his wife.

Mr. Clark, previous to his first trip to the islands, spent a great part of his time in Washington in connection with the work of New Jersey Republican Senators and Representatives. He likewise represented the Pennsylvania railway in so far as New Jersey interests were concerned. For five years consecutively, Mr. Clark labored in Washington and became acquainted there with the powerful men from the various sections of the country.

It is on this account that, when here last, he was consulted by men anxious for the welfare of the country and after several conferences, it was seen that he had a firm hold on the situation. There were more conferences and it was finally decided that Mr. Clark, in furtherance of such views as those expressed by the Builders & Traders' Exchange in their memorial to Congress praying for the expenditure in the Territory of certain stipulated amounts, should be sent on to do what he could.

In accordance with this decision, Mr. Clark left in the China and is probably now in New York. His instructions were to go straight to Prince Kuhio, Hawaii's Delegate to Congress and tender him his services, to be used in whatever capacity the Prince might see fit, every bit of the work done by

Played For High Stakes BUT LOST BY Use of Paltry Methods

"I played for high stakes and lost." In this statement of the woman of the sealed envelopes is contained the most of the operations that have been going on here since her arrival some months ago. It suggests that she had a definite purpose in view which, in the light of later events, has turned out to be an attempt at a gigantic plan which too much haste ruined. This statement was made to a prominent real estate man of the city who sought to tell the woman of the evil of her ways. He had asked in wonderment why she had brought upon herself such worry for a few paltry hundreds.

The woman of the sealed envelopes, marked "Shaw," is not yet in the toll nor is it likely, from the latest developments, that she will be. Those whom she has defrauded are simply awaiting developments and through their attorneys, pressing her for payment. She has promised and promised to pay but invariably, in the morning of the day of the promised payment, she has telephoned her inability "to get to the office on account of illness."

Just a day or so ago, a real estate man who had been a victim of the woman of the sealed envelopes, sent his attorney to her and she told him a prominent attorney and business man was going about among the friends of her first husband, for said long since's sake, to raise money to pay up what she had "borrowed" in town, and thus keep her out of jail.

The timely topic of "Safe Investments for the Young Man" will be spoken upon by P. M. Pond at the Problem Club tonight in the Y. M. C. A., followed by a general discussion on the subject. It is hoped and urged that all the young men of Honolulu who are interested in this much talked of subject will be present to express their opinions and hear a good address. The meeting is called for 8:40 p. m. in the reading room.

BRILLIANT KAUAI WEDDING

McBryde Plantation, Kauai, Dec. 7.—Saturday evening marked the marriage of our popular merchant J. I. Silva to Miss Maria Gouveia also of this place. Both of whom are well known throughout the land. The matrimonial ceremony was performed by the Right Rev. Bishop Zeigler, assisted by the Fathers Emerzon of Koloa and Alderbert of Hanalei.

The bride wore a white silk gown finished with English lace. Her veil looked a perfect picture of prettiness under orange blossoms. Miss May and Mrs. M. A. Gonzales of Honolulu and Mrs. M. A. Rego of Koloa were the maids of honor. Miss May wore a very pretty wattle evening gown. M. B. Fernandez of Hanalei acted as best man.

As the wedding party came up the aisle the Koloa orchestra struck up a wedding march and during the services the Hanalei band played appropriate music. The Right Rev. Bishop in pronouncing the final words also helped convey the wedding ring from the young gentleman to the tender fingers of the bride. This performance, silence reigned a moment, and then friendly hands reached out from all quarters and heartily congratulated the young people. This done, all returned to the building lately prepared next to Mr. Silva's flourishing general retail establishment where a reception was held.

The ball and luau given in honor of the event was one of the most notable social events ever held on Kauai. The invitations issued covered almost the whole of the Garden Isle with a good many Honolulu acquaintances. The guests included many intimate friends residing hereabout and vicinity and a great portion of the prominent residents of Kauai, some having come from as far as Kealia, Hanalei, Lihue, Koloa, Makaweli and Waimea. The guests were received in the cozy parlor of the newly built home of Mr. Silva by the following gentlemen: Capt. John A. Gonzales of Honolulu, Messrs. Rego, Pereira and Ferry of McBryde. During the reception, the Koloa and Hanalei bands combined, led by Band Master Souza, filled in the time with lovely music, and as soon as the tables were loaded to their utmost capacity with delicate edibles by the following ladies, Mrs. Henry and Mrs. J. Spaulding and Mrs. Miller of Koloa, Mrs. Cosma and Mrs. Pavao of Makaweli, Mr. Rego invited all to the spacious luau, built for the occasion, 16 partake of the delicious dishes.

Mr. Rego proposed the health of the young couple and responses were made by C. B. Hofgaard of Waimea and others. Cheer after cheer filled the air with good will. In the heart of all this merry making mention was made that Mr. Silva accept nomination for County Supervisor in place of Mr. Rego and Mr. Rego go to the House.

The luau was gotten up on a magnificent scale, thoroughly Hawaiian in all respects. Poi the national dish, delicious amama (mullet) from the famous Nomulu pond, opihī (shellfish), limu (sea weed) and creator knows what galore. These Hawaiian dishes were so appetizing that they were enjoyed even by those who had not previously learned how to appreciate this sort of feast peculiar of the Paradise of the Pacific.

The whole house and luau were artistically and beautifully decorated and festooned with evergreens of the woods of Hale-man-akua, and it was also brilliantly illuminated with both occidental and oriental lights.

RUSSIA THREATENS KOREA

TOKIO, Dec. 9.—Eight Russian warships have arrived at Chemulpo to oppose the opening of the port of Yonampoh to commerce.

The Russians threaten to land 3,000 men and march upon Seoul should Korea disregard the warning.

The opening of the port of Yonampoh furnishes one of the crucial points in the negotiations now going on between Russia and Japan. A tentative agreement is said to have been reached by which Japan recognizes Russia's dominant influence in Manchuria and agrees to place no obstacles in the way of the solution of the problem. In return Japan demands the recognition of her influence in Korea and the opening of Yonampoh to foreign trade. Russia opposes this on the ground of the port's proximity to the mouth of the Yalu river and that it will threaten her interests and complicate her difficulties in Manchuria. The Korean Government has indicated its readiness to declare Yonampoh an open port.

JURY LISTENS TO JONES' CONFESSION

The confession of E. M. Jones, charged with the murder of his wife and mother-in-law, made at the receiving station on the night his young son took him there to turn him over to the police, at his father's request, figured largely in this morning's proceedings in Judge Gear's criminal court.

Deputy High Sheriff Chillingworth testified as to what Jones had said on that occasion, as did also H. W. Kinney, who was then present representing the Bulletin.

A. G. M. Robertson, for the defense, read, paragraph by paragraph, from a copy of the transcribed stenographer's notes taken during Jones' statement, asking Chillingworth as to the correctness of each separate statement. Except for the difference of an oath, having been left out here and there, which omission Robertson credited to the modesty of the lady stenographer, Chillingworth swore to the entire statement as correct.

The much argued question as to the admissibility of Mrs. Sarah Parmenter's alleged dying statement will be passed upon this afternoon by Judge Gear. Hearing in the case after opening all of yesterday's daylight, went on into the night hours, resuming at 9:30 this morning.
